At the time of the accident nearly 200 passengers, mostly women, were on the steamer, but no one except the captain, engineer and crew knew of the danger until the Burlington had been driven on until the Burlington had been driven on the sandy bank.

When the boat began to fill with water the engineer notified Captain John Gray and he ordered the engineer to put on full steam. The nose of the big boat was pointed toward the New Jersey side of the river. When the sudden stepping of the Burlington was observed by the passengers there was considerable commotion on board.

The passengers were transferred to a seew and in tow of a tug were brought to this city.

When the tide began to rise tonight the Burlington was nearly submerged from bow to stern.

It is not thought the vessel has systained serious damage.

Salt Lake Commercial club and Mayor Bransford. John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, will visit Salt Lake, about the middle of September and explain the necessity of Salt Lake's getting ready for the opening of the big canal. He is the guest here today of the Portland Commercial club. Regarding Salt Lake, Mr. Barrett said:

"Salt Lake should be just as interested in the Panama canal from a commercial standpoint as any of the coast cities. It means a great deal to the business interests, because Salt Lake is the natural distributing center for a vast region. The railroads center there and the city will become the commercial-center, no doubt, for the distribution of the many classes of frade which will be opened by the new canal. From a business standpoint I can see no reason why Salt Lake should not be benefited to an equal extent with San Francisco or other coast cities. But Salt Lake must prepare for the opening of the canal. The people don't generally understand the situation.

BEHM IS CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT

Uncle of Ortic E. McManigal Refuses to Answer Questions Asked by Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Though all of today in the house was supposed to be devoted to Hepublican speeches agains; the Underwood cotton tariff revision bill, about half the time was taken up by Democrats for pension legislation and an ineffectual attempt to socure the passage of the senate amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill providing for an extra month's pay for employees of congress.

Abandoning a practice of thirty years standing, the house voted down the amendment, 181 to 25.

Representatives Austin of Tennessee Utter of Rhode Island and Green of Massachusetts denounced the Underwood bill, saying that if passed it would utterly destroy the cotton mannifacturing industry in the United States. They urged that there be no tariff legislation without a report from the tariff board.

Representatives Stephens of Minnesota and Sloane of Nebraska made pleas for pension legislation cessor. the Continental National bank, there arose in the public mind some antichension that the financial soundness of the Continental bank might be in some way impaired.

This, perhaps, arose from gossip and from a reading of sarbled and incomplete reports of the action which appeared in a morning paper owing to the fact that some of the officers and directors of the Commercial bank also hold official positions of the continental bank, its successor in interest.

Concerning this question, T. W. Boyer, cashier of the Continental bank was never in a better condition of financial soundness than it is at this hour. The false rumors that had been spread that our bank might be involved in the suit which is aimed directly at the members of the liquidating committee created some feeling of uncasiness, which we anticipated by opening the bank at 9:30 o clock in the morning, half an hour before the usual time, and by putting on an extra force of paying tellers, so that no depositor who wanted to withdraw his money would be delayed.

"During the morning hours there was wanted to withdraw his money would be delayed.

"During the morning hours there was a considerable withdrawai of savings deposits, but nothing of a volume that could by any possibility be construed as tending to cripple or hamper our business in any way. And it is absolutely true that many persons who withdrew their savings accounts in the morning returned to again deposit them in the afternoon. We had numerous offers of assistance from other banks, but did not need to take advantage of them, for there was and is an abundance of cash on hand. Almost none of the commercial accounts were withdrawn and during the afternoon hours the deposits were far in excess of the withdrawais. In order to avoid all suspicion that any depositor's funds might not be safe we kept the bank open and the force at their posts until 6 o'clock, but there were no withdrawais after the regular closing hour."

AMERICAN WOMEN SENT OUT OF CAMP

Trouble Beginning in La Esperanza Mine Spreading, and Foreigners Fear for Their Lives.

July 31.-In repelling a meb of striking miners who today freed the prisoners in the local fall, the troops fired, killing nine and wounding thirty-two. The strikers were from the La Esperanza mine, which they abandoned this morning.

This afternoon the men in the Mexico mine, an adjoining property, walked out, and it is understood by the men of the El Oro that a strike will be called there tomorrow.

Fearing that they might be the victims of an anti-foreign demonstration, many of the American women were sent out of the camp on a special train to Tulenanno, whence they were taken to Mexico City. The fears were based upon a circular recently issued by the miners in which Americans were bitterly assalled.

Demand Higher Wages.

More than 4000 men representing the underground forces of the Mexico and La Esperanza are out, and if these men should be joined by those in the El Oro, the number of strikers would number about 7000. They demand higher wages, but it was stated officially that the properties would be closed before increases were granted.

One bundred soldiers were sent from Toluca, the state capital to El Oro this afternoon and President De la Barra has been asked and has promised additional protection. It is expected 1000 soldiers will be here before morning from the capital. The garrison originally consisted of fifty state troops and twenty-five Armed With Chunks of Ore.

Trouble began carly. The rurales had arrested a few of the strikers and the idle men determined to set them free. Arming themselves with nothing better than chunks of gold-bearing ore, they started up the one street of the town toward the fall, throwing stenes as they went at such buildings as offended their sight. They shouled their defiance at the rurales, who fired numerous shots. Before the mob fied, however, it had succeeded in freeing the prisoners. Shutters were closed throughout the town and foreigners redoubled their activity to get the women out of danger. All day the commander of the little garrison has been expecting more trouble

More Trouble Feared.

One danger feared is fire. Unlike most Mexican towns. It is built, not of stone, but of wood. This camp is commonly regarded as one of the richest in the republic, the monthly output of gold and silver having a value of about $2,500,000 gold. On the opposite side of the mountain, where the El Oro properties are located, is the famous Dos Estralias, and it is feared that the 3000 men employed there may also strike. The stock of the three El Oro properties involved is held principally by British and Americans.
